

Product Development Consulting Services

Vikroon Systems helps its clients set technology and product strategy. Additionally, Vikroon helps design and develop relevant products and/or create new markets. It advises and guides them in making technology evaluation and build-or-buy decisions; establishing the necessary infrastructure; providing professional services in both implementation and post-sales support; and developing sales channels through partnerships with resellers and channel partners.

Vikroon Systems leadership has developed and delivered market-leading data center and infrastructure technologies, networking and security products, operating systems and virtualization solutions, grid solutions, data center management, cloud delivered services and server platforms at Sun Microsystems, Hewlett-Packard, Cisco, Amdahl and other leading companies. Some of these technologies have set industry direction and generated billions of dollars in revenues.
